PHILOSOPHY OF MIND

Answer three questions only.

Write the number of the question at the beginning of each answer (including the letter, if you are answering an either/or question).

Write your candidate number (NOT your name) on the cover sheet of each answer booklet (or on the top of each submitted document, if submitting word-processed documents).

STATIONERY REQUIREMENTS

20 Page Answer Book (if sitting exam in exam hall)

You may not start to read the questions printed on the subsequent pages of this question paper until instructed to do so.

1. EITHER:(A) Does intentionality pose an easier problem for physicalists than consciousness does?

OR: (B) Is there a viable causal theory of content?
2. If perception has content, what sort does it have?
3. Is there an explanatory gap only because our phenomenal concepts are very different from our physical concepts?
4. 'A mental state is conscious if and only if it is the object of some other mental state.' Is this true?
5. Do we only desire what appears good to us?
6. If you lost the capacity to imagine, would you lose out on potential knowledge?
7. 'If I am asked whether I believe it will rain, I look up at the sky. I don't look inward to the contents of my own mind.' Discuss.
8. Does knowledge of other minds depend on knowing a theory of mind?
9. 'The belief-desire account provides a simple and powerful model of human agency. We have no good reason to abandon it.' Discuss.
10. Is willpower a distinct faculty?
